5 HABITS THAT CHANGE EVERYTHING

The simple, no-diet habits I start with because they make a big difference without adding a lot of overwhelm.

1	HAVE A DAILY GAME PLAN. Take a few minutes to think through your meals, movement and priorities. A simple plan makes the healthy choice easier when the day gets busy.
2	DON'T LET ONE "BAD" CHOICE BECOME A "BAD" DAY. One choice does not erase your progress. Skip the all-or-nothing thinking and make your next choice a good one.
3	EAT & SNACK WHILE SITTING DOWN. Slow down and be present with your food. Put it on a plate or in a bowl, sit down, and actually enjoy it.
4	DECIDE WHICH DAYS YOU'LL AIM TO WORK OUT. Put your workouts on the calendar like an appointment. Choose a realistic schedule you can repeat—not a perfect schedule you can't.
5	HAVE GRACE FOR YOURSELF. You will have off days. That is normal. Progress comes from returning to your habits instead of giving up when things don't go perfectly.

THE GOAL: Make healthy habits feel normal—not like another thing you have to be perfect at.

FOCUS ON WHAT MATTERS

You do not need to overhaul everything at once. Start with the few things that create the biggest ripple effect.

FOCUS ON FIRST	LET THIS GO
• Consistent meals and snacks • Protein + produce at most meals • A realistic workout routine • Water throughout the day • Getting back on track after an off choice	• Perfect eating • Cutting out entire food groups • “Earning” food with exercise • Starting over every Monday • Comparing your progress to someone else

SIMPLE SWAPS — NO SACRIFICE REQUIRED

Instead of…	Try…
Skipping breakfast, then getting ravenous	A quick protein + carb combo: Greek yogurt + fruit, eggs + toast, or a smoothie
Eating straight from the bag/box	Put a portion in a bowl, sit down, and enjoy it
“I blew it, so I’ll start tomorrow”	“That happened. What’s one helpful choice I can make next?”
Waiting for motivation to work out	Put the workout on your calendar and treat it like an appointment
Trying to eat perfectly all week	Aim for consistency most of the time and leave room for real life

Remember: You’re building a lifestyle, not completing a 30-day challenge. The best plan is the one you can keep doing.

1-PAGE HABIT TRACKER

Keep it stupid simple. Pick a few habits to practice this week—not every habit at once.

Habit	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat	Sun
I had a simple game plan.
I made my next choice a healthy one.
I sat down to eat/snack.
I followed my planned movement/workout.
I gave myself grace.

MY WEEKLY GAME PLAN

WORKOUT DAYS	MEAL / PREP PRIORITIES
_____ _____	_____ _____
ONE THING I'LL DO FOR MYSELF	WHEN LIFE GETS BUSY, I WILL…
_____ _____	_____ _____

START SMALL.
You don't need a perfect week. You need a next step you can repeat.